If you want a meaningful career where you make a difference – welcome to your future. Working closely with some of the UK's most prestigious hospitals and healthcare facilities we foster deep-rooted relationships - building genuine partnerships. We champion healthcare organisations to improve outcomes through recruiting better leaders.

Our 'people first' culture enables our teams to manage their working and personal lives without friction - we promote flexibility, fun and fulfilment. We revolt against the notorious bad practice in the recruitment industry, we're connected by our shared values. You'll find authenticity and kinship here, we care about each other's well-being and success.

Our mission is to improve healthcare outcomes through recruiting better leaders

Since 2008, we have worked with healthcare organisations committed to improving outcomes through recruiting better leaders. The sense of fulfilment that comes from recruiting leaders for 'difficult to fill', 'niche' and 'critical' roles is the intrinsic purpose of Stroud Resourcing.

We represent some of the UK's most prestigious hospitals and healthcare facilities, they choose to continuously invest in our partnership because our people-centric workplace cultivates great behaviour. We build genuine partnerships and work together for long-term success.

Our outstanding reputation rewards us with exceptionally high levels of repeat business. In the last 5-years 89% of our business consists of returning customers. In 2022 we saw 123% year-on-year growth - more than anyone on Recruiter Magazine's Fast 50 list.

Moving beyond results, we're building a community with purpose, supporting the goals of our people personally and professionally. We constantly seek ways to improve engagement, motivation, and wellbeing. Everyone in our business has a say in how it's run.

As a female leader with children, I take a stand against gender disparity and the lack of family-friendly policies and benefits in the recruitment industry. Our policies are designed to ensure you don't have to choose between a career and family life.

With a desire to empower others to take control of their career and a demonstrable talent for launching and developing recruitment brands, our future is focused on finding and supporting entrepreneurial recruiters to set up healthcare sub-brands.

Replicating our exceptional ethos, leveraging our robust infrastructure and marketing strategy, we want to find individuals committed to developing unparalleled knowledge within their niche, emerging as the go-to recruitment firm.

We are a values-led recruitment firm placing purpose before profit.

Comments From Our Team

Joanna StroudManaging Director

What makes you get out of bed in the morning?

"The playing field of life is not level, experience has taught me that things don't just happen, you must make them happen. Moving in to recruitment presented an opportunity for me to get ahead based on my own accomplishments, but it wasn't without challenges.

I experienced gender inequality and social class discrimination, I have had to work incredibly hard to have choice. I want to create a positive work environment where my colleagues are empowered to take control of their career and use it as a vehicle to achieve their life goals, this is what motivates me."

What skills do you need to be a recruiter?

"Consultative approach! Our clients rely on us to find them the very best talent, candidates that have the skills to solve their problems. To match the right candidate to the job, we take a deep dive into the challenges that our clients experience, it's expected that we will provide professional advice and make recommendations on how to improve their recruitment process and employer brand.

Technical ability! Sourcing candidates requires technical ability, you need to develop genuine insight to the healthcare industry. People can't be sold in the same way cars are, cars don't have a say in who buys them, candidates need to be skilfully matched to jobs and both parties need to actively agree to enter a work contract."

Guy StroudDirector

What's the most frustrating part of recruitment?

"Finding candidates is extremely challenging. 73% of candidates sitting on CV databases including LinkedIn are passive job seekers. They are open to hearing about new career opportunities, but they are not actively seeking jobs - the result of this is out of date CVs and incorrect contact details. You need to be tenacious!"

Any advice for someone considering a career in recruitment?

"Recruiters need relentless determination, you must harness the will to win, results cannot be achieved if you are not on the phone. You also need speed & flexibility, when you get a good vacancy on, you are racing against external recruiters, against internal recruiters, the speed of the market, and the speed of candidate expectations. Who works the quickest and the hardest wins!

Charlotte White Senior Recruitment Consultant

How resilient do you really need to be?

"Some campaigns consist of #300 candidates, you could make 100 calls per day with nobody answering! or the stock answer you receive is "no".

When you do speak to a candidate you have one chance to persuasively position the role, but you must assess their suitability first, this is not an easy balance to achieve, it requires a combination of skills".

In 2020 we launched Fertility Talent and The Alternative Workspace!

Fertility Talent

A dedicated, specialist recruitment firm focused on Women's Health and Fertility. Our Co-Founder Guy Stroud runs this dynamic new brand.

The Alternative Workspace

We revitalised underutilised office space. launching an inspiring workspace for our clients and other organisations to rent as they adopt hybrid working models and reduce their office footprint.

Our Purpose

We are a values-led recruitment firm placing purpose before profit. We focus on long-term, deep-rooted relationships that bring added value. Since 2008, we have worked with healthcare organisations committed to improving outcomes through recruiting better leaders.

Workplace Wellbeing Scheme

First launched in 2019, our workplace wellbeing scheme emulates our commitment to the welfare and safety of our colleagues. From ensuring everyone has access to the right equipment, to specialised mental health training and seminars with health and wellness experts, we have an inclusive and holistic approach to wellbeing. We are committed to maintaining a welcoming, safe, respectful, supportive, comfortable, clean, fun, and inspiring environment where employees can have an equally positive impact on productivity and effectiveness.

Carbon Neutral Business

We have taken steps to reduce our carbon footprint, and though we're only a small business, there's plenty we can do to mitigate our environmental impact. We've cut down paper and energy use in the office, we achieve carbon neutrality by planting trees in the Yorkshire and Humber region. We still want to do more, and we're always looking for fresh ideas about how to promote sustainability in our business and beyond.

Charity of Choice

Each year we get together to choose a charity partner to support with fundraising activities throughout the year. For our last financial year we chose Mind, the mental health charity, because we have seen how important it is to have access to the right support and information during difficult times, and we love the work Mind do to help workplaces improve their mental health and wellbeing programmes.

Awards

In 2021 we were shortlisted for the national Investing In Talent Awards in two categories: Best Pay & Benefits Strategy & Best Micro Recruitment Company to Work For. We are thrilled to have these aspects of our business recognised by the largest trade publication in our industry.
